NEW TRAFFIC ORDINANCE IN EFFECT THURS.

Hour Parking Limit in Business Part New Provision

Dixon's new traffic ordinance will become effective Thursday when new regulations will be applied to the down town section and marked changes will take place. Signs for the marking of the streets, warning motorists of the new regulations have been received and were being placed today. The signs calling attention to the one hour parking rule from the hours of 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. are black letters on a yellow background. This rule, the ordinance states, is not applicable on Sundays when no time is placed on the parking.

A red shield with silver lettering, warns drivers against making "U" turns at five street intersections in the business district, as follows: Galena avenue and First street; Galena avenue and Second street; Hennepin avenue and First street and on Peoria avenue and First street.

The outstanding clause of the new ordinance is the section which provides for the one hour parking limit in the restricted area. Galena avenue from River to Second street, on the west side of the street, and First street from Ottawa to Highland avenues, on both sides of the street, come under this section. On Galena avenue from River to Second street, on the east side, cars will be permitted to stop to receive or discharge passengers or freight, not to exceed ten minutes.

Double Parking Taboo.
Double parking of cars on any street or avenue within the city and at any time, is forbidden, whether the car be occupied or not. This section is intended to relieve a great deal of congestion especially in the business district which in the past has resulted from the double parking of cars.

In the business district and street adjacent, white lines will signify the parking spaces and all cars will be required to park within the white lined zone, and the wheels to be not more than one foot from the curb, except where the markings are in a diagonal position.

It has been explained that the purpose of the one hour parking ordinance is a movement to benefit the shopping or trading public. Ample parking space has been provided outside of the restricted area and on the streets and avenues, under the one hour rule and it is believed that sufficient parking space may be found to accommodate the shopping public. It is expected that the new ordinance will also eliminate the parking of a hundred or more cars which in the past have been parked in the business section of the city an average

CHICAGOAN, NAMED COLVIN'S SUCCESSOR ON PARDON BOARD, MAY NOT ACCEPT THE OFFICE

Former Parole Supt. is Made Asst. Commerce Com.

Springfield, Ill., July 20.—(AP)—Appointment of Hinton G. Claybaugh, Chicago, as superintendent of pardons and paroles to succeed Will Colvin, resigned, was confirmed at the Governor's office this morning.

Will Colvin, former superintendent of pardons and paroles was officially appointed as assistant commerce commissioner this morning at the Governor's office.

MAY NOT ACCEPT

Chicago, July 20.—(AP)—Acceptance by Hinton G. Claybaugh of the post of state superintendent of pardons and paroles, tendered to him today by Governor Small, is a matter of some doubt, Claybaugh said today when notified of his appointment.

"Acceptance involves a sacrifice," he said, "and I am trying to think if it is in a public duty, but I want to talk to my friends, to the crime commission and to other authorities before I make up my mind definitely whether to accept."

Claybaugh, an executive assistant to several utilities companies of Samuel Insull, traction magnate since he left the federal service some years ago, has been told by his employer that he may have leave of absence if he wishes to serve the state. It will be several days, Claybaugh said, before he decides whether to take or reject the post.

Would Check up Work of College Graduates

Chicago, July 20.—(AP)—A field service to check up on college graduates during their first year of work analyzing their successes and failures for the aid of the students who come after, is one of the major budget suggestions from President E. C. Elliott of Purdue University.

Modern education, President Elliott yesterday told the opening convocation of a five day institute for college administrative officers from all over the country is beginning to reckon these expenses necessities rather than luxuries.

"These marginal expenses are becoming increasingly important," he said, "for not everything at colleges is learned from books."

Rockford Man Sent to County Jail for 60 Days

Floyd W. McDaniell of Rockford entered a plea of guilty to an information charging him with transportation and possession of intoxicating liquor in the county court this morning and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to serve 60 days in the county jail by Judge William Leach. McDaniell was arrested in Amboy Saturday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff A. H. Hill of Lee Center.

GRAND JURY WILL BE RECALLED TO HOLD ARSONISTS

DeKalb Co. Prosecutor Acts in Recent Arson Cases

Sycamore, Ill., July 20.—Reconvening of the DeKalb county grand jury, Aug. 1 to indict two men charged with arson was asked Monday by State's Attorney Cassius Poust of Judge Fulton.

Poust's request followed the confession of Ben Thompson, 47, DeKalb farm hand, that he had fired a barn on Marvin Zellars' farm in revenge for attentions he said Zellars paid to Thompson's wife.

Thompson was bound over Monday. The other alleged "firebug" is Earl Cross, student aviator, who, according to officers, has confessed to firing a big barn near Waterman, Ill. Cross is also believed to know something of the fire which destroyed the Waterman M. E. church some time ago with heavy loss. He is believed to be a pyromaniac.

Feeling against the two men is running high in DeKalb county and the state's attorney is pushing legal action against the two men as rapidly as possible.

Thompson, who was arrested in Wisconsin several days ago, has confessed.

Thompson a resident of DeKalb, went to work on the Zellars farm several months ago. Later his wife joined him as housekeeper for the farmer. About a month ago Thompson accused his wife, a woman 50 years old, of receiving attentions from Zellars. She denied it, and in the argument that followed charges that Thompson threatened her life.

A warrant charging the husband with disorderly conduct was issued and he was arrested and placed under $500 peace bonds. Unable to furnish the bond he was held for two weeks in the county jail at Sycamore. A Rockford farmer finally put up the bond for him and he left, telling friends he was going to "get even" with Zellars and Mrs. Thompson. Several nights later he returned and set fire to the barn and Zellars' home. The house was only slightly damaged.

REPORT MADE TO BOARD OF REVIEW TODAY

Scientific Study of Assessments is Made by Analyst

(Editor's Note—J. C. Watson of Chicago, tax expert for the Illinois Agricultural Association, who has spent considerable time examining the books of every township in Lee county, has completed his investigation and has prepared a very interesting report of his findings which has been submitted to the members of the Board of Review, now in session. This report will be turned over to the board of supervisors at their regular September term. The report is a very lengthy one, and for this reason, will be submitted to the readers of The Telegraph in two installments, the first of which follows, the second to appear in tomorrow's issue.)

Mr. Chairman and gentlemen: For the benefit of the record I will begin about where I spoke before. I wish to say that for the last five years and somewhat more than five years I have been travelling over the State of Illinois, engaged in the kind of work which I have been doing here. I have now worked in about sixty-five of the counties of the State, and I am going to try to bring to you some information about what is done in the remainder of the State in order that you may have some basis of comparison for your own County.

As I stated a few minutes ago, this is not the first time I have worked in Lee County. Three years ago, at the request of the Farm Bureau, I came in to make an examination of your valuations to see whether or not they were on a fair basis, as between the classes of property, and as between this County and other counties. At that time it seemed to me that there was no problem in this County that deserved any particular attention. In fact we found it to be true that farm lands were assessed on full valuation at that time in this county at somewhat less than 40 per cent of the value at which they were then selling, and that city and village property was somewhat more than 40 per cent of the amounts for which they were then selling.

For the first time in an eight-year period, Oregon's high school seems certain of the united support of a district sufficiently large to assure financial assistance that will permit the conducting of an educational institution appropriate to its needs.

Lt. Gov. Sterling is Head Monuments Board

Rockford, Ill., July 20.—(AP)—Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, of Rockford, has been appointed chairman of the Illinois Battle Monuments commission, according to announcement made by Mrs. Frederic W. Bentley, of Chicago, chairman of the organization committee of the Illinois association and a member of the American Battle Monuments commission. The Illinois association, which was organized recently, with the backing and support of the American Legion and other military and civic organizations of the state, will urge the next general assembly to make a sufficient appropriation for the erection of a suitable Illinois memorial on the battlefields of France.

Andrews May Ask Other Nations to Help Him

London, July 20.—(AP)—Brigadier General Lincoln C. Andrews, American prohibition enforcement chief, said to The Associated Press today: "If we are successful in our present mission it is probable that other governments may be appealed to give ear to our pleadings to interrupt the activities of rum runners who have constantly broken our laws."

This is a question, however, which must be decided by Washington, he pointed out, as it would entail considerable diplomatic correspondence prior to initiation of actual negotiations.

OVER SCORE OF DEATHS IN HEAT WAVE THROUGHOUT THE MIDDLE WEST; RELIEF ON WAY

OREGON'S SCHOOL ELECTION WILL BE HELD THURS., 29th

Poard of Community H. S. to be Chosen on that Date

Oregon—Members of the new community high school board, authorized by last week's election, are to be named at a special election to be held in the district on Thursday, July 29, it was announced today.

Petitions were filed Saturday for five directors and, according to indications, they will encounter no opposition.

Two Farmers on Board
John F. Putnam, superintendent of the Silica works, Leland Hanson, assistant county superintendent of schools, George Snyder, insurance agent and former adviser of the Ogden County Farm Bureau, Fred Mayhew and Charles Davis, farmers, are the candidates.

The candidates were selected after a caucus of district taxpayers and that the selection of the quintet has met with general approval is indicated in the fact that no opposition has been launched.

Plan New Improvements
Contracts have been awarded for the construction of a new heating and plumbing contract in the high school building.

The present system has been inadequate for several years. Instead of a unit system, new furnaces have been added to the heating plant whenever occasion required.

As a result, considerable space has been necessary to house the plant to the disadvantage of the school equipment. The new heating system to be installed will permit the use of two more recitation rooms than those previously afforded high school students.

New Building in 5 Years
Merchants and local professional men have agreed to have the building of a community high school deferred for a five-year period, unless farmer residents in the district concur in the necessity of erecting a new structure.

The threatened boycott of Oregon merchants by farmers in the district was again shown to be a wild rumor Saturday when an unusually large volume of business was reported at all of the local stores.

For the first time in an eight-year period, Oregon's high school seems certain of the united support of a district sufficiently large to assure financial assistance that will permit the conducting of an educational institution appropriate to its needs.

Thunderstorms Forecast to End the Blistering Heat

95 Above Register Yesterday; Was 91 At Noon Hour Today

Dixon and vicinity is sweltering with the rest of the central west in the present torrid wave, which yesterday sent the mercury in the government thermometer at the Shuck & Bates' grocery, Lincoln Way and Upham Place, to a 95 reading.

And today the temperature continued its boiling tendencies, the thermometer registering 91 at noon.

Chicago, July 20.—(AP)—A torrid wave, prevalent over virtually the entire country from the Rocky Mountains eastward has sent the mercury to record heights in a number of midwestern localities and caused more than a score of deaths.

In Chicago twelve deaths were attributed to the extreme heat as the city sweltered in the hottest July 19 in weather bureau history. The high mark of 94.2 reached here was far exceeded however, in portions of South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas, where temperatures generally ranged between 98 and 107, the latter in Mitchell and Pierre, S. Dak.

Of the outside deaths, one was reported in Nebraska, two in Missouri, one in South Dakota, three in Minnesota, one in Wisconsin and three in Indiana.

The weather bureau promised relief today and tonight in the northern great plains area and the northern portion of the midwest, but continued high temperatures were likely to continue through Wednesday along the southern boundaries of this area. Local showers and thunderstorms which fell over considerable territory yesterday, were again in prospect today.

Hill Denies He'll Seek Sheriff's Job

Deputy Sheriff Albert H. Hill of Lee Center was in Dixon today on business and at the same time, gave out an announcement countering numerous rumors that have gained wide circulation about the county.

The deputy was a candidate for the nomination of sheriff of Lee county at the April primaries, and was defeated by Ward Miller of this city.

Rumors became current to the effect that the Lee Center deputy would again seek office by running as an independent at the November election. Deputy Sheriff Hill stoutly denied this report this morning and announced to a representative of the Telegraph that he would not become a candidate for the office of sheriff as an independent at the November election.

"SHOOT UP" THREE INNS IN MUSKOGEE

Used Clubs When Guns Were Empty; Now in City Jail

Muskogee, Okla., July 20.—(AP)—Four persons were shot and wounded, two seriously, and eight others were severely clubbed by two Muskogee officers who early today became crazed by liquor secured in raids and ran amuck in three hotels.

The officers Paul Davis, a deputy sheriff, and Ves Cornack, city detective, ran about the halls of the hotels, battering down doors and firing at guests as they lay in bed. When their ammunition became exhausted, they beat their victims with clubs and smashed windows and fixtures.

Fellow officers, responding to a riot call, were forced to shoot Davis several times in a fight to overpower him. His condition is critical. Cornack was easily subdued and placed in jail.

Others Thought Injured
Several other persons are believed to have been injured but had not reported to police. The more severely injured were taken to hospitals with many fled to nearby hotels or private homes.

Officers investigating the case said that Davis and Cornack had been engaged in liquor raids during the evening. Search of their automobile revealed several empty bottles and a quantity of whiskey. All of the injured were believed to have been residents of Muskogee.

Entering a small hotel shortly after 1 o'clock the pair started shooting through doors, at fixtures and at guests trying to escape down halls. They then entered an adjoining hotel and repeated the attack. It was while engaged in their third raid that the riot squad arrived and arrested them.

Too Dazed to Talk

Cornack was too dazed to talk this morning and Davis was not rational. Shortly after Davis was captured he said "It would be better if we had both been killed".

Ed Conway, merchant policeman, was severely wounded in trying to overpower Cornack.

Mrs. J. M. Roden was shot in the forehead, but has a chance of recovery, physicians said. A negro porter and an unidentified man received slight wounds.

Six of the men most severely beaten are: Homer Pittman, policeman, condition serious; Tom Smith, owner of one of the hotels and his son, John Smith, Benjamin Butts, K. Forzy and "Blackie" Williams, all of Muskogee.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSNS. MADE 500,000 NEW AMERICAN HOMES POSSIBLE DURING 1925

Minneapolis, Minn., July 20.—(AP)—Five hundred thousand American homes were built or bought in 1925 on mortgage loans amounting to $1,730,000,000 made by building and loan associations.

This statement was made by H. F. Cellarius, Cincinnati, Ohio, secretary in his report to the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the United States Leagues of Building and Loan associations here today. He credited building and loan associations with having been largely responsible for the thirty per cent increase in residence building registered in the United States last year.

Ten million persons held stock in the 12,403 building and loan associations which have assets aggregating a little over five and one-half billion dollars, said Mr. Cellarius in his report.

"The increase in assets last year," he continued, "was $743,233,957, or 15.6 per cent while the growth in membership was 1,332,645, also at the rate of 15.6 per cent over the preceding year."

Pennsylvania made the largest gain in aggregate assets last year, gaining $130,000,000; Ohio increased $82,264,610; Massachusetts $57,319,184; while New Jersey gained $45,728,625 in five months."

"Twenty-two of the twenty-six failures in 1925 which involved a loss of approximately $500,000 were in Pennsylvania and most of them were caused by mismanagement," said Mr. Cellarius.

GOVERNMENT ACTS TO STOP SALE OF WORT, BEER BASE

Chicago Manufacturer of Malt Arrested and Plant Seized

Chicago, July 20.—(AP)—A drive on the manufacture of a non-alcoholic product as a violation of the Volstead law has been inaugurated by federal authorities here and already resulted in the seizure of a large plant and the arrest of 36 persons.

Government attorneys are intrenched for a court fight to prove a violation of the prohibition act despite the fact that its alcoholic content is within the law, the product known as "wort" which they say has greatly aided the cause of the illicit beer distillation.

The contention is that the material is produced solely for, and can be used only for the production of beer, and therefore violates the federal statutes. Counsel for producers maintain that the product is within the law and cannot be touched.

The opening move was the seizure yesterday of the plant of the Archer Products Company and the arrest of 35 employees.

OFFICIALS CONCERNED

Washington, July 20.—(AP)—Prohibition authorities expressed concern today over the increasing popularity of a "product" which is being shipped about the country and is easily transformed into beer by the addition of yeast.

E. C. Yellowley, prohibition administrator in Chicago, has been directed to prosecute the Archer Produce Co., where arrests were made yesterday.

Prohibition administrators also were instructed today to deny permits to those breweries manufacturing "worts" for wholesale distribution.

PITTSBURG THUG MAY HAVE SHOT CANTON EDITOR

New Angle of Murder Investigated by Authorities

Canton, O., July 20.—(AP)—Theories that Pittsburgh gunman killed Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, were strengthened at a conference today between Lieutenant Peter Conner of the Pittsburgh homicide squad and Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, conducting the investigation for Stark county.

After the conference, Conner stepped back to Pittsburgh to fight habeas corpus proceedings brought by George Psalidas, "George the Greek," held in Pittsburgh in the investigation of the murder.

En route to Canton, Conner stopped at Warren to check phases of an alibi offered by Psalidas concerning his movements on Thursday night and Friday morning. Mellett was killed shortly after midnight on Friday.

Psalidas, Conner said, admitted registering in a Warren hotel shortly after midnight. It was his opinion that a hotel clerk had signed the register for Psalidas and that this and other angles were at variance with the suspect's story.

Slater and Conner were in conference with H. J. Burton, Columbus detective, employed by the Canton Daily News of which Mellett was publisher. Mellett's frequent editorial attacks on the underworld and its characters are accredited with having caused his murder.

Although devoting most of his attention to the Pittsburgh gunman theory, Slater's investigation also took into consideration the possibility that a Canton underworld leader was involved.

Sixtieth Wedding Anniversary Here

Sixty years of married happiness were commemorated in the celebration of the diamond wedding of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Fridley of Sterling Sunday at the home of their son, Clyde Fridley near Dixon, all of their children with the exception of one son being present, in addition to grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

While the 75th wedding anniversary is commonly called the diamond wedding, the new Funk and Wagnall's Standard Dictionary defines the diamond anniversary as the sixtieth, a note stating that the seventy-fifth anniversary is "sometimes called the diamond wedding." The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Fridley was celebrated ten years ago at their home, 414 Avenue D, in Sterling, but extensive repairs underway there at present made it advisable to have the big family dinner at the pleasant home of their son near this city.

Four Generations Present.
Among the guests at the dinner were the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Ralph Wilson and husband, of Peoria; George S. Fridley and wife of Chicago; Mrs. Charles S. Hopkins and husband, and Lawrence Fridley, of Sterling, and Clyde Fridley and family of Dixon. John Fridley of Denver, Colo., the other son, was unable to get here for the day. In addition to the sons and daughters the following members of the family were among those seated about the board: Mrs. E. H. Yarker of Springfield, granddaughter; Charles Hopkins, Jr., grandson, and his wife, Mrs. C. C. Loveless, granddaughter, and Miss Jeanne Loveless, great-granddaughter, and Russell Wilson, grandson, all from Chicago. Of the eight children born to Mr. and Mrs. Fridley, all are living except two who died in infancy.

Bouquets of flowers added to the attractiveness of the home and an air of happiness and festivity marked the occasion. Many gifts from relatives and friends and innumerable messages of congratulations and best wishes were received by the happy bride and groom of 60 years ago, substantial checks and presents being included in the remembrances from the family. It was a day long to be remembered and the many friends of the guests of honor hope it presages other occasions just as enjoyable in the future.

Civil War Veteran.
Andrew T. Fridley and Miss Mary Lavonne Pratt were united in marriage July 19, 1866, in Lewistown, Ill., and they made their home there for several years before moving to Lawrence, Kan., where they lived for a time. In 1888 they went to Sterling, the family home having been in that city for the past 35 years. Before his retirement Mr. Fridley was a stationery engineer at the Borden Milk factory there for a number of years.

During the Civil war Mr. Fridley enlisted in Co. G, 50th Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and served for three years during the war. Both he and Mrs. Fridley are enjoying good health, despite their years, and they were able to finish the celebration of their sixtieth wedding anniversary by accompanying their son, George Fridley, on a motor trip to his home in Chicago, where they will visit for two or three weeks with their son and their grandchildren.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY.
BREAKFAST—Apple sauce, cereal cooked with raisins, crisp broiled bacon, whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Macaroni baked with cheese, lettuce sandwiches, butter scotch cookies, berries, milk, tea.
DINNER—Vegetable dinner, jellied fruit salad, cheese cups, graham bread, milk, coffee.

A vegetable dinner is a delightful way to be economical as well as thoughtful for one's family's health. The modern cure for many ills is effected through "dieting" and very often this excludes meat from our menus. Most of the best restaurants serve a "vegetable platter" and considerable skill is shown in their arrangement. Color is of some importance since this determines the beauty of the dish. The texture and flavor of the vegetables must be considered since variety is important. Also the method of cooking must be thought of. One vegetable is buttered, one creamed, one baked and another fried or steamed. There is one detail to guard against—be sure none of the vegetables are too moist. The cream sauce should be smooth and creamy, not runny, and the buttered vegetable quite dry before buttering.

Vegetable Dinner.
Green pea timbales, creamed carrots, new potatoes in parsley butter, broiled tomatoes.

The dinner is planned to be on individual plates from the kitchen. A timbale is placed in the center of each plate and the remaining vegetables used as a border in groups.

Green Pea Timbales.
One and one-half cups pea puree, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 2 eggs, 3 tablespoons milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 or 3 drops onion juice, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

It will take about 1½ pounds of peas in the pod to make the puree. Cook peas until tender in as little water as possible, letting the water cook away and through a sieve. Beat in remaining ingredients and turn in to six buttered timbale molds or custard cups. Place in a pan of hot water, cover with buttered paper and bake about twenty-five minutes in a moderately hot oven. Unmold to serve.

HAD PICNIC DINNER AT LOWELL ON SUNDAY

A WOMAN'S DAY ABROAD

BY ALLENE SUMNER
Paris, France, June 19.—Green almonds are to the French table what olives and pickles are to ours. Butter is served ordinarily only upon request.

Water is also a request item and no essential.

If you insist on American prohibition in your dining, you pay for your wine or beer or cordial double because of omission.

Forks and spoons and knives are giant size, the fork resembles our garden picks, and the knife might be mistaken for a sabre. Tea spoons are the size of our table spoons.

Table napkins are the size of young table cloths, and a spotless table cloth for each new table of diners does not seem the essential here that it does at home.

If you find these copious references to food a bit gross, reflect upon the saying of the sage who said that "to know a nation's stomach is to know a nation's heart."

If he didn't say it exactly like that, he meant it, and I am rather fond of coining my own epigrams.

Eating in French begins on the Cherbourg-to-Paris diner. A cackling waitress pushes us into chairs and cackles some more, all of which means nothing to us. She is probably again calling us "daughters of pigs of an American."

Upon our erstwhile snowy cloth reposes a plate of four sardines, butter cut into rosebuds upon fresh oak leaves, a basket of cherries, mushy bananas, and what we learn are the green almonds found on every dining table in France.

We learn what they are, as do our fellows by the bitter experience of biting them as though they were peaches. The French waitresses laugh jovially to see us.

Dining car service resembles a procession in the harem.

The cackling waitresses tie up the male chief steward at their head. He passes down the aisle, nodding with his head at this plate and that which is to be served.

Handmaiden one dumps down the plates, huge Goliath ones. Handmaiden two hurls a spoonful of potato and cauliflower salad upon the plate. Handmaiden three hurls a hunk of cold ham or meat loaf. Handmaiden four slings a pimento on the heap, and handmaiden five hurls a tomato.

We are timed one minute, 50 centimes, for the hors d'oeuvre. Promptly, the male cock-o-the-roost signals his handmaidens and they swoop down upon our table. One takes the top plate and puts a new one in its place, one stops with a huge pannier of bread, a third heaps the topmost plate with omelet, the best omelet I ever ate, juicy and packed full of spicy herbs.

We are time again. Then monsieur the chandelierer walk down the aisle, asking "more, more?"

We Americans are a bit dazed at this spectacle of being asked if we would have more on a diner. Many would have more on a diner. Many accept. Then Chanticleer summons his cackling handmaidens and she dumps it on.

More plates—the fourth so far.

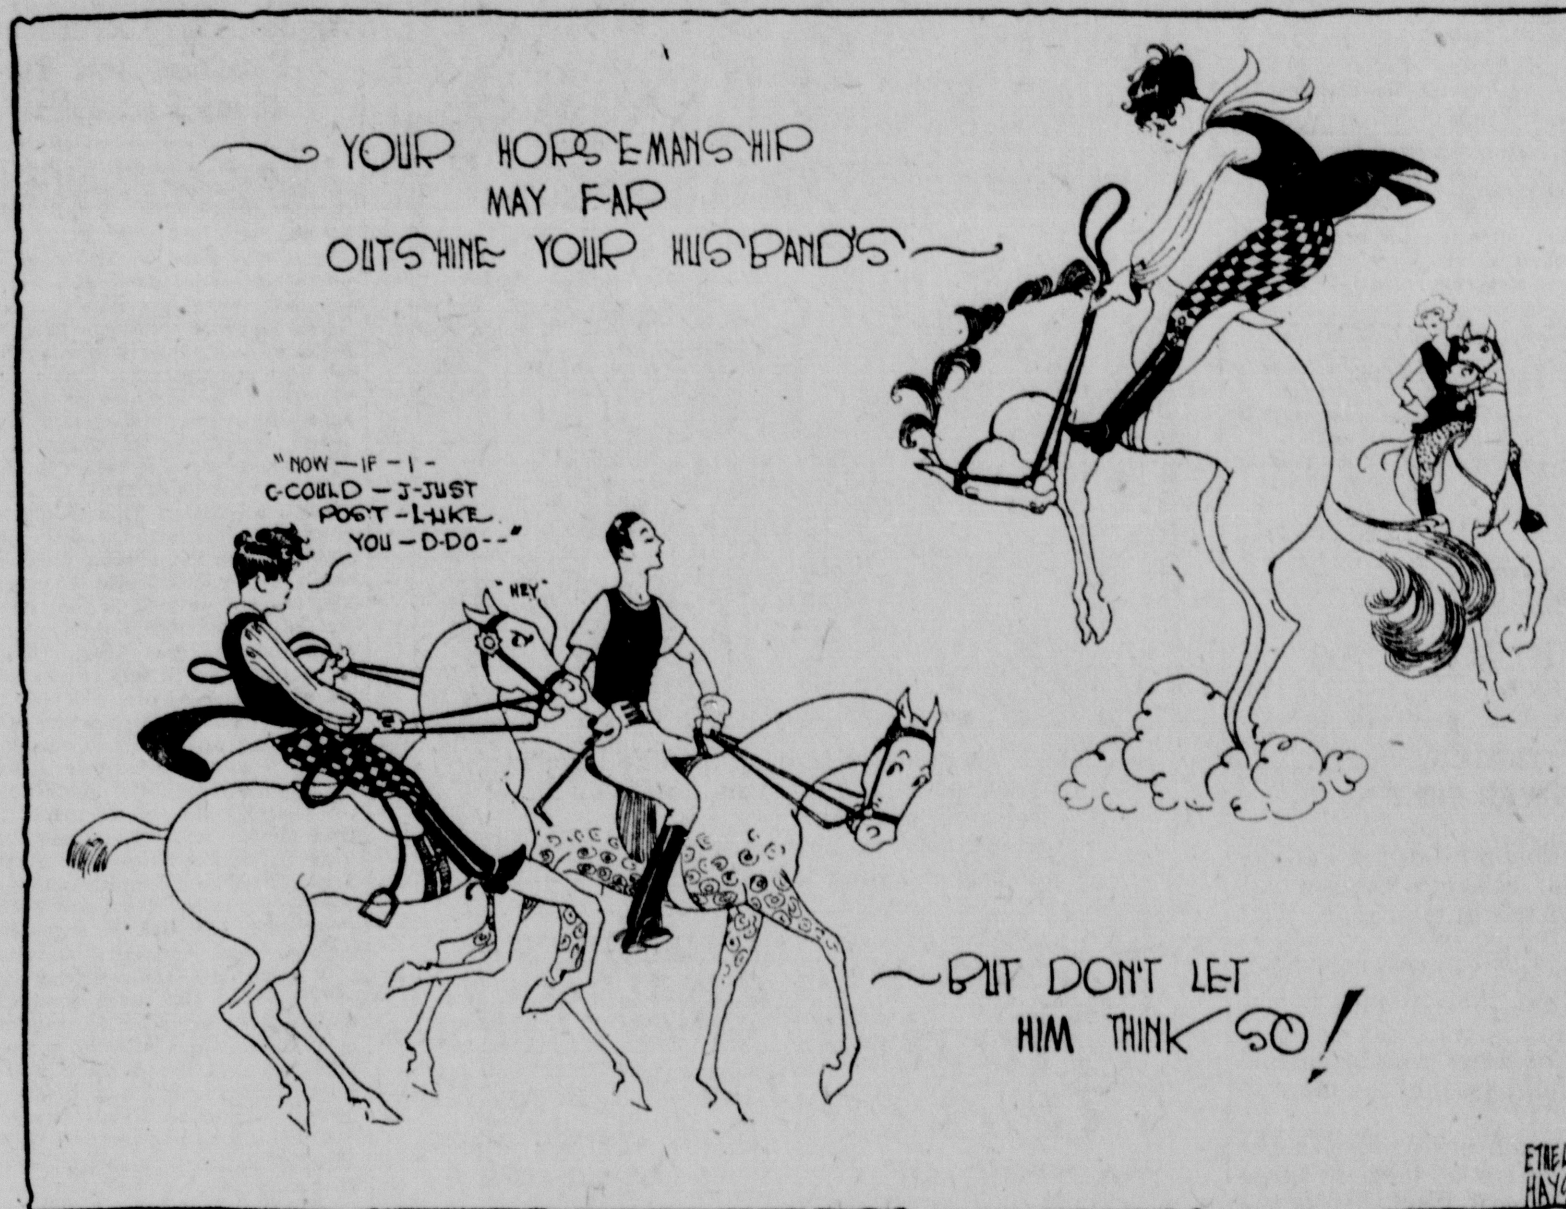

This time the phalanx of five maidens lines up, one leaves a chicken leg, the second adds a spoonful of gravy, the third some peas, the fourth, some potatoes.

Timed. And again the chief cock o' the walk goes down the aisle with the second helping.

Ice cream, a watery kind, with cake, and cheese complete the feast. The bill? Twenty-five francs, which, being interpreted, meant that day a trifling over 71 cents each.

One had no doubt about the tip. Chanticleer hovers o'er one and

The Right Breakfast for Workers

Eat Food that Supplies "Balanced" Ration After Night's Fast

If you feel tired, hungry, "fidgety" hours before lunch, don't jump to the conclusion of poor health. Thousands have unenergetic mornings because they start days with breakfasts lacking in certain food elements.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

Mrs. Gross, who is at present employed at the Downing auto agency in this city, is a young lady of charming personality, and has many friends in Dixon and vicinity who will tender best wishes to her and her husband, who is assistant postmaster at Franklin Grove. Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Beautification of civic recreation grounds is engaging the attention of several Illinois cities this summer, inspired partly by the awards offered by the Harmon Foundation of New York city to the playgrounds showing the greatest progress in attractiveness in a year's time.

The contest, which opened last November, is being conducted by the Playground and Recreation Association of America. One hundred and seventy-five cities in the United States and Canada are competing.

Only ONE CREAM But results will amaze you!

The Jarnac One-Cream System goes to the cause—no other treatment is needed

It may be at a dancing party—or on a moonlight night. It may be during your summer resort vacation, or at home. But some time and somewhere, in every woman's experience, those thrilling, romantic moments come, when "a skin that feels as lovely as it looks" is a priceless possession.

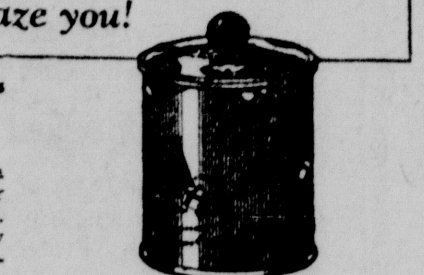

Then the girl who has followed the simple Jarnac One-Cream System—whose complexion is in the pink of condition—with the soft, cool, fragrant, pastel tones, so much demanded, knows it as a treasure.

The JARNAC One-Cream System

Like all great discoveries the Jarnac One-Cream System is surprisingly simple.

It is based upon a scientific, prophylactic principle—approved by leading physicians and skin specialists—that "a clean, acid-free pore never distends." Never becomes enlarged and ugly. Only keep each tiny pore scrupulously clean and free from sour, skin acids, and it becomes invisible. Then the skin, aided by Nature, takes on a fine-grained texture, a lovely, soft, suede finish.

No elaborate treatment is necessary. Jarnac goes to the seat of the trouble. Removing the cause, it automatically removes all need for so-called "foods," for tedious massage or facial calisthenics, for elaborate and expensive "many-cream" methods.

Simply wash the face with pure soap and lukewarm water. Apply Jarnac Cleansing Cream generously. Pat it in. Leave for several moments to work into the pores. Remove with soft cloth or tissue. Do it every night. That is all. No other treatment is needed.

The amazing results are due entirely to the elimination of skin acids, to the rapid recuperation of the pores.

10-day "money-back" offer

Just use Jarnac Cleansing Cream for 10 days at our risk. Go to your nearest beauty counter. Purchase a full-sized package for 50 cents. Use one-third of it to make this test. That will take about 10 days. Follow the simple directions. But use no other cream or "food" that might clog the pores and excite the acids.

Then if you are not in love with Jarnac, return the remainder to the counter where you purchased it—and the full purchase price will be refunded.

Procure your supply of Jarnac Cleansing Cream at once. You will never go back to ordinary cleansing creams again, we are sure. JARNAC ET CIE, Inc., 154 No. Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.

WHY DON'T FISH HAVE WEB FEET?

It is customary to picture a scientist as a plodding individual who lives a quiet laboratory life, seeking that which makes for the comfort and welfare of the human race. This is generally true.

Lately, however, publicity seekers of various ilk have been posing as scientists chiefly to get their names in the newspapers.

A few weeks ago the startling bit of news was broadcast that if we drank too much milk we would assume the mentality and aspects of a cow.

Now a professor in London lends much enjoyment to the occasion by exclaiming in a loud voice (or at least in large type), "The increased popularity of swimming will make the human race web-footed."

Ho hum! These July days are so warm. If the two scientific gents will make notes on their cuffs to return next winter, we will take up their cases more fully.

Just at present a few questions must suffice. Here they are:

Italians are the world's champion spaghetti eaters. Have been for a long time. Why is it they don't look like telephone poles, or shoe strings, or angle worms, or tangled yarn?

If we really do become what we eat, has the scientist making swimmers web-footed eaten a large piece of cheese?

If swimming makes us web-footed, why don't fish have web feet?

RADIO RULINGS.

What's this we're tuning in? Squeals, scraping, rasping! It's a decision of the Department of Justice that Secretary of Commerce Hoover has no control over broadcasting or any other form of radio unless it's specified by law.

Sounds terrible. Look at all those stations now on the air, trying to find a good wavelength on which to broadcast their circus to the world. See all those applicants, 600 of them, waiting for a chance to horn in. Watch all those ogres raise their power to devour the little stations.

All of them unleashed. All of them wild for the humble fan's attention.

But it's not as bad as it looks.

There's a law still in effect, the old law of 1912. By that Mr. Hoover still has the power to issue licenses for broadcasting, although he can't very well refuse them. But only those of the 600 applicants with equipment ready can get them.

As for the 540 now broadcasting, from pigmies to ogres, most have a gentlemen's agreement to "be good," to stick to their own wavelengths and give the fan what he wants to hear.

It all boils itself down to the fan and his desires. It's he who makes a station, and if he doesn't, the station soon finds it out and dies. No law is needed. It's a matter of natural selection, as Darwin would have put it.

Take too much exercise and you get muscle bound. Think too much and you burst a brain cell. Ho hum!

Nicest thing about an old straw hat is when you leave a cafe you may get a new one by mistake.

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

AN EPIGRAPH

By this time I realized that I was doing a dishonorable thing, for no matter what anyone else did, I had no right to listen to what Dr. Flint and Mr. Robinson would consider a private conversation.

I went up to the manager's office and was ushered into the room behind it, which belonged personally to Mr. Robinson. Piled up on the desk were the first editions of the afternoon papers. I picked up the one on top and sat down to read. There was nothing on the first page about Miss Cleaver and only a small story with a one column headline on the second. It read: "Girl Commits Suicide." The story gave the mere facts of the tragedy.

Instinctively I thought: "This is the last of her. Here she lies."

The worm at her breast and a clod on her eyes.
Never again to ask for bread,
Never again given a stone instead.
This is the last of her. Here she lies.
The worm at her breast and the clod on her eyes.

Plainly I could read this epitaph of Martha Cleaver between the lines. I looked up and saw my face in the mirror opposite and shuddered at the awfulness of her story. I realized that, except "by the grace of God," it might have been me.

I saw Martha Cleaver as she was fifteen years before, starting out just as I was today; young, ambitious, wanting to move the world in her own way, blessed with faith in herself.

I saw John Robinson fifteen years younger than he was today, and knew that at that time he could easily have been the ideal of any girl. He was, of course, very handsome—and perhaps he was in love with her, at least the thought he was, and she was in love with him.

Naturally, he advanced her in the store, or rather he gave her a chance, for which she was made to pay with her soul. An having brains as well as beauty she worked late to make good—not for the money in it, but to make the man understand that she was worthy. She did make good, but she incurred the jealousy of other women who with only one-tenth of her talents thought they could do her work better than she herself was doing it.

Each year the work became harder and harder as more responsibility was put upon her. More and more she had to devote time to her business, less and less she saw of the man she loved.

BOY SCOUTS IN DEKALB COUNTY GIVEN CAMP SITE

John McQueen, Kirkland, Deeds Tract to Organization

Kirkland.—With the presentation of a ten-acre tract on Kishwaukee river two miles west of Kirkland by John McQueen, wealthy Kirkland farmer, DeKalb county's boy scout council is assured one of the finest camp sites in this part of the state.

Mr. McQueen has been one of the most enthusiastic backers of boys' work in the county. His presentation of the tract, however, which was made at Thursday's Rotarian picnic came as a most pleasant surprise.

Plans $20,000 Dam
Mr. McQueen has also indicated his intention of erecting a $20,000 dam in the creek which will provide excellent bathing facilities for the camp.

DeKalb Rotarians, who have "adopted" the scouts in the county immediately voted Mr. McQueen an honorary member of their club. The honor was conferred at the banquet Thursday.

Plan New Dining Hall
Plans were immediately launched by the Rotarians to erect a dining hall 18x36 in the grove and later a kitchen will be added.

It is understood that the tract will be used exclusively in welfare work for boy and girl organizations.

After one of the men had accosted him, Naughton was seized by the three negroes. He beat them off and began shooting as the trio fled. Thomas Rachel, negro, found wounded denied the attack. He died later in a hospital.

ILLINOIS FRUITS IN BETTER SHAPE THAN A YEAR AGO

Apples Above Average and Peaches Best for Many Past Years

Springfield, Ill., July 19.—(AP)—Illinois fruit crops continued favorable through June, with all crops slightly better than last year at this time, the June report on fruits of J. A. Surratt of department of agriculture here said today.

The apple production prospect is well above average and slightly better than a year ago. The condition of apples was lowered somewhat in June by the June drop and by the severe drought in the southern area. The prospective increase is largely in farm orchards rather than the commercial orchards. This is due to the fact that the northern third of the state or non-commercial area has a much better crop than a year ago. The present outlook is that commercial shipments will not vary greatly from those of last year. Old trees are not doing well this season. Young trees are holding up well and there is an increase in the bearing surface as well as an increased number of young trees in orchards this season. In a general way the summer apple prospect stands out as much better than for the fall and winter varieties. Summer varieties also Winesaps, Delicious and Twigs mostly show a favorable promise. Bess are poor and other fall and winter varieties unevenly poor to fair. Commercial movement from the southern area is under way. The state condition of apples is reported as 67 per cent of normal compared with 55 per cent a year ago and the average of 67 per cent. This condition indicates that a total production of apples of 7,200,000 bushels compares with 7,000,000 bushels last year and the past five year average of 6,000,000 bushels. Commercial production outlook for Illinois is 1,200,000 barrels compared with 1925 production of 1,164,000 barrels. United States apple crop outlook is for 208,000,000 bushels against 172,000,000 bushels crop in 1925. United States commercial apple prospect is placed at 37,500,000 barrel sin 1925.

Peach Crop Biggest.

Illinois peach production prospect is way above all previous high records for the state. There are a few complaints of a light set of peaches chiefly in some south eastern counties but the prospect has seldom been more favorable ever most of the state. The number of bearing trees this season shows a tremendous gain over previous years. State peach condition is reported at eighty per cent of normal compared with twenty per cent a year ago and the average of thirty-eight per cent. The indicated state production is for 2,337,000 bushels compared with 600,000 bushels last year and the past five year average production of 470,000 bushels. The quality of peaches is favorable and with reasonably favorable market price conditions prevailing the state should ship out well above three thousand cars this season. United States peach production outlook 61,700,000 bushels compared with 46,600,000 bushels in 1925 and the average production of 46,900,000 bushels.

Grapes are Favorable.

The condition of Illinois peaches is seventy-one per cent of a crop compared with 38 per cent last year and the average of 52 per cent. The indicated pear production for Illinois is 725,000 bushels compared with 510,000 bushels last year and the average of 385,000 bushels. United

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHERNS

States pear production prospect 24,600,000 bushels compared with 19,800,000 bushels produced in 1925.

Condition of grapes in Illinois is favorable and reported at eighty-eight per cent compared with forty-four per cent last year and the average of seventy-eight per cent. Production outlook is 6,010 tons compared with 3,360 tons last year. The United States grape production outlook is for 2,440,000 tons against 1,870,000 tons last season.

Berry fruits reduced by drought in the south, but are favorable crops in the central and northern areas.

Interfered With a Petting Party; Dead

Keokuk, Iowa, July 19.—(AP)—Identity of a young man who shot and killed Sam Hurd, a farmer, when the latter interfered with a "petting party" on a country road near here Saturday night is known to the police they announced today. A search for the slayer was being made along the Mississippi river on the theory that he escaped in a boat.

Hurd was shot during a scuffle with eight young men who went to his farm to protest against his interference with the "petters," the police said. One report was that he had demanded a $5 silence bribe from a Keokuk boy who was accompanied by a young woman from Hamilton, Ill.

Seven of the youths were detained for questioning last night and released on their own recognizance after the officers decided their statements fixed responsibility for the shooting on the eighth member of the group. Hurd was shot through the leg, the shot piercing an artery.

On the Chelsea embankment, London, has been laid a new stretch of road surface which is claimed to be absolutely skid proof. The material is ferro-concrete.

Rockford Negress Held for Murder

Rockford, Ill., July 19.—(AP)—Mrs. May Tucker, 43, negress, is in jail for probable arraignment on a murder charge, and the body of her victim, Henry Bess, 23, white, found shot in an automobile in front of her home Saturday night, will be sent to Chicago for burial.

State's Attorney W. D. Knight said Mrs. Tucker confessed she did the shooting. According to local authorities, a romance between Bess and the woman began three years ago in a road house near Peoria where Mrs. Tucker was employed. Bess is said to be a member of a prominent Peoria family and to have left a wife and child there. He worked for a dairy company here and boarded for a while at Mrs. Tucker's home.

Mrs. Tucker said she shot Bess in the leg earlier in the day when he threatened her over a loan of $100. They went riding Saturday night and the quarrel was resumed. Booze London.

Forest Fires Out of Control in the West

Seattle, Wash., July 19.—(AP)—Forest fires continue out of control in northwestern Washington, northern Idaho and eastern Montana. Montana and Idaho rangers are leading two thousand fighters in a campaign to stem blazes in national forests, which, fanned by high winds continue to devastate large stands of valuable timber.

Fires were generally reported under control in other sections of the northwest.

BRENNAN STRONG FOR FARMER AID HE TELLS VOTERS

Also Reiterates Charge Volstead Act Must be Modified

Decatur, Ill., July 20—(AP)—George E. Brennan, democratic candidate for the United States senator, speaking in the Orlando Hotel this afternoon, told the voters of Illinois that he was willing to match his record of service to the cause of farm relief with that of his opponent.

"One of the questions of the campaign is that of farm relief," he said. "While I do not claim to be an expert, I am for the Haugen bill, as it appears to be what the farmers themselves want. Everyone needing relief has been given it except the farmers. When they sought for relief the congress, which Wayne B. Wheeler and the Anti-Saloon League boast they control, turned a deaf ear to them."

"When the Haugen bill was pending it was loudly announced that my republican opponent was in Washington. It was declared that he was there to help to pass it."

"You all know what power a United States senator possesses. Without his consent no member of congress from the state he represents may hope for favor from any of the branches of the administration. There are ten members of congress from Chicago. Seven are republicans, three are democrats."

"Battling Average, 600" "My opponent, as to the members of his party at least, the presumptive United States senator from Illinois, would naturally be expected to exert a great influence with the seven republican members from congress. Yet every one of these seven republican members from Chicago voted against the Haugen bill. If my opponent actually endeavored to aid the Haugen bill his battling average with the Chicago republicans was exactly 600."

"I too, was appealed to to aid the Haugen bill. I was told that ten votes would assure its passage. There were only three democrats from Chicago in congress. One was absent when the bill came up. I called up the other two on the long-distance telephone and asked them to vote for the Haugen bill. One of the members did vote for the bill the other was taken ill the night before the bill came up. In spite of the chances which hampered me I had a battling average of .333 per cent."

Mr. Brennan repeated his statements regarding the necessity for the modification of the Volstead Act that he had made in previous speeches. He declared that he considered that issue the main one of the campaign.

"My opponent," he said, "voted for the Volstead Act as a member of the congress, and he can not separate his candidacy from the Anti-Saloon League and the Volstead Act."

"I know that some of his friends are going around the state and saying that he has changed his mind about the Volstead Act and that at the proper time will have something to say regarding it. This is pretty vague. His record has been made and he must stand on it."

His Weekly Itinerary
From Decatur, Mr. Brennan is scheduled to go to Bloomington via Clinton.

On Thursday July 22nd enroute to East St. Louis he will visit Lincoln, Virden, Girard, Carlinville, Gillespie, Staunton.

On Friday at East St. Louis he will hold an afternoon meeting.

CORN BELTERS TO PLAN DETERMINED FIGHT FOR HELP

Leaders Meet in Iowa Capital and Frame Resolutions

Des Moines, Iowa, July 20—(AP)—After a torrid night's work phrasing in very definite language resolutions to point the way for a nationally organized fight for congressional aid for agriculture, the corn belt committee and the committee of 22 met again today to place their campaign before the public for the third time.

The corn belt men called in George N. Peek of Moline, Ill., chairman of the committee of 22, and other business and farm leaders in an effort to draft a set of resolutions capable of support by all persons interested in farm relief.

It seemed the consensus that the republican administration would be subjected to severe adverse criticism with the democrats' condemned but less severely.

"There is deep resentment over both political parties having betrayed their campaign pledges particularly against the administration because it was the majority party and had the power to carry out its policies," said William Hirth of Columbia, Mo., chairman of the corn belt committee.

Good Thoughts for Good People

And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of him self more highly than he ought to think; but to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith.

—Paul

Much of our ignorance is of ourselves. Our eyes are full of dust. Prejudice blinds us.—Abraham Coles

Has not God born with you these many years? Be ye tolerant to others.

—Hosea Ballou

There can be no Christianity where there is no charity.

—Cotton

Ye shall know them by their fruits.

—Christ Jesus

One of the greatest barriers in the way of a ready acceptance of any truth is prejudice. It is a warped, distorted state of thought, which would temporarily blind one to actual facts.

—If people would only be willing to investigate more fully before reaching a decision, judging every system strictly on its merits, a vast amount of prejudice would be avoided.

Editorial Arouses Ire of Shiek of Movies; Wants Revenge

New York, July 20—(AP)—Rudolph Valentino arrived in New York today, itching to fight the man who wrote an editorial "Pink Powder Puffs," published in the Chicago Tribune.

The editorial said the shiek of the movies "should have been drowned years ago" and concluded with: "Rudy, the beautiful gardeners' boy, is the prototype of the American male."

He admitted writing a letter to the newspaper about it.

"As soon as I had written the letter," he said, "I handed it to my publicity agent and let him do the rest."

"I'm mad," Valentino rapped out to reporters. "I'll make whoever wrote that foul stuff look like a full moon. This is no publicity stunt. I'm really mad."

In Height of Fashion
Valentino, interviewed in a hotel, sat in an easy chair, the height of fashion in costume, but his eyes flashed.

"I can't understand how the editor of the Chicago Tribune let that editorial get into the paper. But it is more than a coincidence. This happened before just as I was passing through Chicago. I read the editorial just before I arrived in Chicago. I immediately wrote the letter."

Valentino gave gestures suitable to his wrath.

"I am not angered by the reference to my being the son of a gardener," he added. "What made me mad is the whole tone of the insulting thing. In Italy in the absence of the name of the writer of an article the editor may be challenged. I regret that system is not in vogue here."

Valentino made it clear however, that he is not in arms against the Chicago Tribune but merely the writer of the editorial.

"It might have been written and slipped in at the last moment," he said.

ISSUES CHALLENGE
Chicago, July 20—(AP)—Rudolph Valentino passed through Chicago yesterday en route to New York, and today the newspapers received in the mail a letter signed by the screen star, demanding satisfaction, American style, for what he termed a "scurrilous attack upon me, my race and my father's name."

The letter explained that Valentino bore no grievance toward the Tribune, but only against the "cowardly writer."

"I call you, in return," the letter reads, "a contemptible coward and to prove which of us is the better man, I challenge you to a personal test. This is not a challenge to a duel in the generally accepted sense, that would be illegal. But in Illinois boxing is legal and so is wrestling."

Wants Private Test.
"I prefer this test of honor to be private, so I may give you the beating you deserve," the challenger added, explaining that he is an American citizen. "I do not know who you are or how big you are, but this challenge stands if you are as big as Jack Dempsey."

The letter ended with a post script announcing ominously that Valentino would return to Chicago in ten days and in the meantime could be addressed in the meantime could be addressed.

"HELEN OF AMERICA" WOULD HAVE ALL GIRLS PLAY TENNIS TO GIVE THEM HEALTH AND GRACEFULNESS

America's Beloved Girl Champion Tells an Associated Press Reporter Why She Thinks Game is Essential

Helen Wills, most prominent among American women in the world of tennis, read The Associated Press interview O. B. Keller obtained with Bob Jones, the world's golf champion. Interested that tennis may keep its rightful place along with golf in the sentiment of all true lovers of sport, she responded to a request of the general manager of The Associated Press that she tell Miss Ethel M. Halsey, how she learned tennis, how she faced championship matches and what hope there may be that all young girls may take up the game. Miss Halsey is a member of the New York reporter staff of The Associated Press.

New York, July 20.—(AP)—An ardent hope for an increasing interest among young women in the sport she loves, moved Miss Helen Wills, once of California, but now acclaimed as "Helen of America," to tell The Associated Press, that the "fun of it" alone is sufficient warrant for young girls to take up tennis. Because she does love the game and does want it to have a greater place, particularly among women, in the recreation life of the land, she endured the longest interview of her young life—and came through smiling.

First off, let it be said that her story is one of encouragement to young players who hate the discipline of instruction for, like Topsy, she believes she "just grew into it" a tennis player.

Played For Fun
"I played for fun. I practiced by playing games, not by drilling on strokes," she said. "I never bounced the ball against a barn yard door. I played against those who could show me the simple principles of position and strokes and then I worked out my own technique. I found that my serve was about the hardest thing for me and I worked quite hard trying to perfect it. But I didn't do this by serving a lot of balls over the net at once. I did it in games as I went along. The result was that I never noticed any sudden mastery of a special stroke, but just found my game improving gradually."

"I played a great deal with men, as all girls should, because by doing so all girls will harden and pull up their game. Then, too, men play the game harder and better and it is the best thing anyone can do to play against players playing at their best. That is why match play is such a good thing, besides being more exciting than ordinary play."

Helen is Gracious
One doesn't have to observe Helen Wills long to realize that tennis has given her at once physical strength and grace of movement. The oval of her face is slightly thinner since the recent operation for appendicitis that spoiled her "fun" at Wimbledon. Her creamy complexion denies her vigorous life on the courts. Her well-formed figure and excellent carriage forestall in the grace of her movements off the court something of the ease and economy of effort noticeable in her game.

Her story of her development in tennis she believes can become the story of any American girl who will combine "fun" with earnestness in playing the game.
"All young tennis players should quickly get into tournament playing no matter how modest the tournament," she continued. "My first year in the Berkeley Tennis Club brought me by first tournament at the age of 15. I was defeated but I remember the big thrill that first tournament gave me. Mrs. Marjorie Kross beat me in the first round, but I was pleased with myself because I took a set. Mrs. Kross was then ranking fourth or fifth player in the state."

Stresses Ten Points.
When Helen went to college she continued to play almost daily after she finished her classes. She gave ten points for the use of would-be champions of the court as follows:
"First, get plenty of practice.
"Second, choose a variety of opponents.
"Third, get fun out of your playing.
"Fourth, have good equipment—a tennis means a good racket, good balls, a decent court and comfortable clothes.
"Fifth, watch good players and tournament matches, not to copy, but to unconsciously absorb the rhythm of the game.
"Sixth, play with players better than yourself.
"Seventh, develop your footwork on the court.
"Eighth, don't fool on the court; concentrate on doing your best.
"Ninth, relax completely before and after the games.
"Tenth, and most important, never give up."

"How do you face a championship match?"
"I never plan ahead for matches and I never remember them afterwards. I play all my tennis on the court. While I am playing I am enjoying the fun of the game and the excitement of the match and I am looking no further ahead than the next point. I find them exciting whether I am winning or losing and no more nerve racking at set point than at first point. I never make a fetish of training. I merely go to bed early during tournament weeks, eat simple food and take care not to catch cold—that's about all."
"How do you plan your attack in different matches?"
"It is impossible to do much planning ahead of time. One cannot tell what the opponent will do. One cannot even tell how the match is going when it is going on because it goes back and forth, teeters from one side to the other.
"I think a player makes a great mistake to try to alter her game in attacking particular opponents. She can vary her pace, but not change her game. To do so is an impossibility and will wreck the steadiness of the game."

Must Use Head.
"It is also important to remember to use one's head. Young players usually forget to."
"Can you remember certain matches that have been more than usually thrilling to you?" Miss Wills was asked.
"I think Wimbledon two years ago thrilled me more than anything else I've ever taken part in. It was the first time I'd played there and I went to the final match of three sets—anyone who has been there knows the excitement—the zest in the air."
"You want more girls to play tennis. How can that be brought about?"
"If more schools would only encourage children to play tennis," she observed, "we'd be bringing along a lot bigger crop of promising young girl tennis players today."
"Or if the play grounds superintendent could be induced to include courts in the usual plan—wouldn't it be nice?"
"We need to do something like that in this country.
"England and France are getting ahead of us in the number of capable girls they are getting ready for championships."
"One more thing. Has Helen Wills, the young woman, often had to make sacrifices to Helen Wills the tennis player?"
"Oh, no, I have simply played more tennis than I've done anything else because I have liked it better. But I've had time for dancing which I love, and which I consider quite a help in the development of good footwork."
"I've had time for lots of art, drawing and study of the old masters. I loved my visits to the great galleries of Europe."
"Do you think that a champion woman player ever will be produced strong enough and good enough to beat the champion man?"
"No, I don't think the best woman will ever beat the best man," she replied promptly. "But I don't see any reason why women should not continue to become better and better players. Poor sportsmanship, often charged against women, is entirely a matter of individual temperament. I think, and it is very rare in tennis. There are many, many more times

CARL MAYS GIVES REDS CHANCE TO GRAB OFF TITLE

Submarine Hurler is the Mainstay of Cincinnati Boxmen

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Carl Mays, veteran of four world's series, is giving Cincinnati hope for its first title opportunity since 1919. Yesterday the submarine server mastered Brooklyn 5-2. Only the veteran Wheat penetrated his deceptive delivery to any extent, getting two doubles and a single for a perfect day at bat. This performance, which held safe the Reds' lead of one and one-half games, was witnessed by only 3,471 paid persons.

The Pirates clung to second position in the National League race with an outburst of hitting that humbled the Braves 10-4. Cuyler made a double and two singles.
Tied in Home Runs
Only after ten innings of heated battle did the Cardinals, third place team bow to Philadelphia 4-3. Bottomley made his 14th homer along with a triple and a single.

Hack Wilson of the Cubs remained deadlocked with Bottomley for the honors when he registered a circuit drive that gave the Cubs a 9-5 margin over his old team mates the Giants.
The Yanks battered two St. Louis pitchers into submission emerging with a ten to two verdict. Eight runs were scored into the opening inning during which Paschal hit a single and homer. The Yanks now hold a lead of 7 games.
Jack Quinn of the Athletics went down before the Tigers 8-3.
Fred Marberry started his second game of the season for the Senators and allowed Cleveland only three hits to win by 4-1.

Chicago after losing two straight to the Red Sox squeezed out a 5-4 victory, halting a ninth inning rally after two runs had scored.

SIDELIGHTS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Chicago Cubs are steadily increasing their lead in twin killings in the majors. After being the first club to touch the century mark they are still doubling them up registering their 103rd double execution yesterday.

Johnny Mekan, Philadelphia National outfielder had a good day, getting four hits including a double in five times at bat.

Sammy Hale of the Athletics had a perfect day at bat getting four hits in four times up.

Clyde Manion, catcher of the Tigers, will be out of action a few days. A foul tip split his finger in the seventh inning against the Athletics.

Johnny Mostil regained his batting eye yesterday to smash out a hit which enabled his club to beat the Red Sox.

Ted Lyons, ace of the White Sox, played the rescue role for Thomas in the eighth inning and in the next frame had to exert himself to choke off a Red Sox rally.

Clyde Beck, recently recalled by the Cubs from the Milwaukee Association club, got his opportunity to break in as a regular when Frigau was chased by the umpire. Beck got a single his first time up, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Grimm's double. He played a great game in the field being pivot man in a double play and making several great running catches.

Hagen Holds Fine Lead in Eastern Golf Meet

Delaware Water Gap, Pa., July 20.—(AP)—With a record breaking mark of 67-65-132 for the first 36 holes, Walter Hagen, former champion, held a commanding lead today for the last half of the 72 hole eastern golf championship tournament at the Wolf Hollow Country Club.

Hagen led Bill Mehlhorn, Chicago, and Johnny Farrell, New York, his nearest opponents, by 9 strokes. Hagen negotiated the first 35 holes in 12 strokes under par, lowered the course record of seventy in each round and set a new world's mark for 36 consecutive holes in a tournament. The course is 6590 yards long.

Wrestling Match Will Be Held Wednesday, 28th

Wednesday, July 28, has been decided upon as the date for the wrestling match at the Rosbrook hall, bringing together Oreste Valdaifi and Big Bill Martin. The postponement was necessary for the procuring of a license from the new Illinois boxing commission.

The British museum contains books inscribed on byster shells, bricks, tiles, bones, ivory, lead, iron, copper, sheepskin, wood and palm leaves.

ROCKFORD GOLF STAR IS AMONG LOWS IN TOURNEY

Anthony Haines Is Strong in Western Amateur Meet

White Bear Lake, St. Paul, July 20.—(AP)—With sixty players holding scores of 80 or less for the first day's qualifying round, keen competition was looked for today as play got under way in the final 18 qualifying holes of the Western Amateur Golf Tournament.

Rolling hills, full of cuppy lies, tested the skill of the 148 players who started yesterday and out of the field only three emerged with scores better than par of 72 and no one exactly matched that figure.

Harrison R. "Jimmy" Johnston, western champion in 1924, led the field with a brilliant 68, going out in 33 and home in 35. Before Johnston finished his round, he knew he had 69 to beat, for earlier in the day Jack Westland of Seattle had gone around in 69 while J. C. Ward of Kansas City had a 71.

While 136 of the starting 148 finished, 76 of these were over 80, ranging up to 96, and it is from the sixty with 80 or better for the first day's play that experts expect the 31 qualifying scores. The final match will be played Saturday. Among the forty low scores in the first day's play were Anthony Haines, Rockford, 77; Chick Evans, Chicago, 78; and I. J. Osborn, Champaign, 78.

Half Million Have Got Their Permits

Springfield, Ill., (AP)—Hunters and fishermen to number more than half a million have been licensed by the State of Illinois, William J. Stratton, Director of the State Department of Conservation, announced today.

"Of the total of 618,552 licenses sold in the last twelve months," said Mr. Stratton, fishing permits outnumber hunting by more than four thousand. The fact that 16,534 non-residents were among purchasers of Illinois licenses speaks well for the conservation program during the last four years.

"Judging from the original regulations and repeat orders that are already coming in to the department, more licenses will be sold than in any previous twelve month period. This increase in the sale is due in part to the active and intensive enforcement of the law, the constructive game and fish restoration work which included the purchase and establishment of eight fish hatcheries and two game farms."

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

Answering Some Further Questions about Latex-treated Web Cord

NOTE—So great an interest has been shown in this new construction because of the service given by United States Royal Cord Tires on passenger cars and busses that a further explanation of this patented process has been suggested.

- Q—Is treating cords with Latex entirely new in tire building?
A—Yes. Until this process was developed by the United States Rubber Company, the use of Latex before it had been coagulated into crude rubber had never been used in tire building.
- Q—Is the process patented?
A—Yes. The process is patented and owned by this Company.
- Q—What are its advantages?
A—The tire engineer's ideal is a tire thin and flexible as a soap bubble and strong as steel. The more you can add to a tire's strength without increasing its weight the better. Latex-treated Web Cord provides the strength and flexibility without adding unnecessary weight.
- Q—Is it possible to make the cord structure of a tire too heavy?
A—Yes. Just as a cable made of many strands of fine and highly tempered wire can be stronger than a heavier iron bar, so the cord structure of a tire can be made strong, yet light and flexible, through this process.
- Q—How does treating cords in Latex give additional strength?
A—Latex is virgin rubber just as it comes from the tree. There are no chemicals in Latex to destroy the natural oils in the cotton or to weaken the cord fibre. Each cord in a United States Tire is run through a tank of Latex by means of the machine shown in the illustration above. The cords are then laid side by side and drawn up over heated rollers which evaporate the water in the Latex, producing a rubberized fabric of cotton cords and pure rubber. Each cord is impregnated and surrounded by rubber, and attached to its neighboring cord with an elastic rubber web.
- Q—Are there any other advantages?
A—Yes. In the old cord fabric, the main strands in the cord structure were tied to each other with fine threads. Latex-treated Web Cord has none of these cross-tie threads and this source of internal friction is therefore eliminated. By looking inside of a Royal Cord Tire and comparing it with tires made of the old cord fabric you will see that the Royal Cord has a much smoother and even appearance.

Eight Years Ago This Week Eight U. S. Divisions Led Big Allied Offensive That Beat Germany

Where the American Troops Helped Break Through

EDITOR'S NOTE: Eight years ago this week the big allied offensive that brought on Germany's collapse and ended the World War began. It followed closely on the heels of a big German offensive that failed soon after it started. In the following article, J. R. Vance, recognized as a noted authority on World War history, gives a graphic picture of the major moves made by the Allied and German commanders. His story reveals many interesting facts not generally known.

BY J. R. VANCE
Army Authority on World War History

When a determined force of Americans stopped the German march on Paris in June, 1918, the French were near the end of their resources. Yet all knew that because of the German superiority in manpower more attacks were to come.

In order to win the war before the allied blockade starved their people into submission and the influx of American troops gave the allies superiority of numbers, the German high command planned three gigantic battles for the summer of 1918. The first, in Champagne, was to smash the French; the second, in Flanders, to cripple the English; and the third, the capture of Paris and Amiens, to crush the two weakened adversaries and force them to accept a German peace.

While waiting for the German attack, General Foch ordered the allied armies to perfect their defenses and to prepare offensives against sensitive spots in the German line. One of these was southwest of Soissons, a scant six miles from the front and the bottle neck of the line of supply for the Marne salient.

Profiting by the experiences gained in the German offensive of March and May, the French decided to abandon voluntarily, at the start of the next attack, the belt of territory occupied by their first position, on which the Germans normally concentrated their artillery fire. The defense would be made on a position that would escape this destructive fire, while the Germans themselves would suffer severely from the allied artillery fire directed on the abandoned area.

Gave Up Territory
At the same time, every energy was being strained to pierce the German intentions. By July 6 it was ascertained that the Germans planned to capture Reims about the middle of July, by a gigantic double

OGLE CO. LEADS STATE IN WOLF BOUNTIES PAID

Has Paid $205 on 40 Pelts
Thus Far in 1926,
Report

Springfield—(AP)—Extermination measures carried on for centuries by white men and Indians have failed to rid Illinois of wolves and other predatory animals, reports from county bounty officers show.

Bounties on more than 150 wolves have been paid in the state this year. Ogle county leads the list with $205 paid on more than 40 pelts. Marshall county is a close second with $127.50 paid on 22 young wolves and one fox. In April, May and June alone, although no attacks against men have been reported, one large timber wolf was recently seen roaming the streets of Peoria. Hogs, sheep, small animals and game have suffered the most damage from wolf ravages.

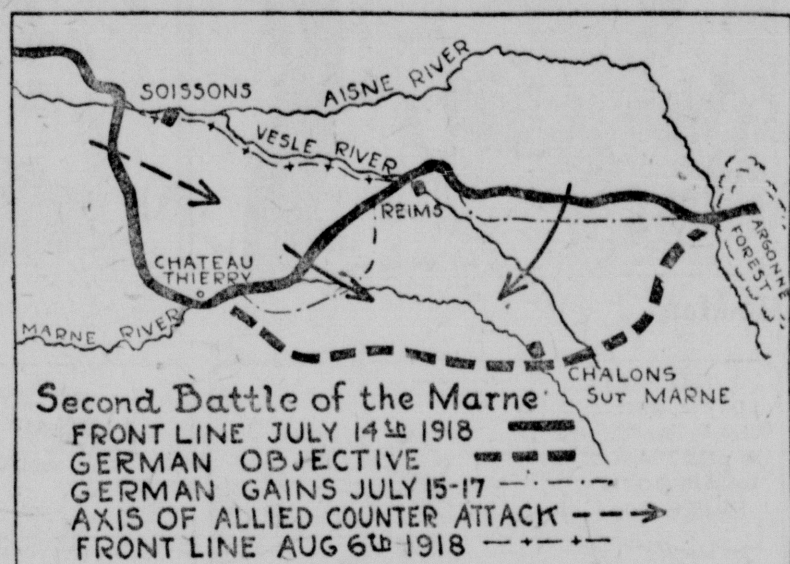

Northwestern Illinois and the Mississippi valley counties seem to be most heavily infested with the animals. In these sections, the damage to hogs is reported almost as great as that to sheep, ancient prey of the wolves.

Pike county, although the bounty office does not show many killed, reports much damage from predatory envelopment extending on the west, to the vicinity of Chateau Thierry, and on the east almost to the Argonne forest.

Meanwhile American troops, pouring into France at the rate of 250,000 men a month, now numbered over a million. These reinforcements, together with a full knowledge of the enemy plans, enabled General Foch to prepare a great counter-attack directed at Soissons, to eliminate the Marne salient. He set it for July 18 in order to allow the Germans to become thoroughly committed to their own battle.

Prisoners captured 8 p. m., July 14 disclosed that the German artillery preparation would commence at 12:30 a. m., July 15. But the French were just one jump ahead. At 11:45 p. m., July 14 they opened a terrific most counties do not constitute an expense to the country. The wolf crop of the state is said to be increased by migration from neighboring states. They are said to cross the Mississippi where the river is frozen and also come down from Canada by way of Wisconsin.

Reason for Prevalence.
Eight cubs and their mother were killed near Toluca. Arnold, Curtis and Aledo have also been hosts to litters and many wolf dens are reported near Rushville. The bluff hill neighborhood, near Quincy, is said to be infested with litters.

One reason assigned to the large number of wolves in the state is because no steps have been taken by the state toward eradication. This year, the department of conservation under the direction of William J. Stratton, has since April waged war upon them.

Since predatory animals form as great a menace to wild birds and game as to livestock, the eradication program has been under this department. Besides organized hunts for grown wolves and their dens, the thickly infested sections are also laid with large wolf traps.

Illinois pays no bounty on wolf pelts, this being left to the discretion of each county. Bounty prices in the state range from $5 to $25 per head, Mr. Stratton said. A bounty paid by the state would probably aid eradication measures by fixing the amount of bounty. The wolf skin is valued at around $5, so that bounties paid in fire, with the entire allied artillery, on the Germans massed in their advanced positions. Twenty-five minutes later some 8000 enemy guns replied. The glow of the flashes of this, the greatest artillery concentration of all time, could be seen in Paris more than 50 miles distant.

A Tremendous Attack

At daybreak 27 German divisions attacked 18 allied divisions. East of Reims General Gouraud's Fourth army decisively stopped them. West of Reims, however, the attack made headway up the Marne valley and south of that river, where only the American Third division held its positions. This German success caused General Petain to order a delay in the allied counter-attack scheduled for July 16, but Foch promptly countermanded this order.

Notwithstanding small German gains during the next two days, the German high command, on July 17, realized that the attack had completely failed. Therefore it was when it had turned its attention to the attack against the English, that General Foch's great counter blow struck the enemy.

Fourteen French and four American divisions were hurled against 11 German divisions and quickly destroyed them.

The allies were at the very gates of Soissons before the Germans recovered from their surprise. By noon July 18, the advance of General Mangin's Tenth, and General Deputte's Sixth armies had sealed the fate of the Marne salient.

The ensuing two weeks saw some of the hardest fighting and most magnificent staff work on record, as the German high command endeavored to extricate the half million or more men from the jaws of the powerful vise that was slowly and surely closing on them.

Closing the Salient

By continually strengthening the critical front southwest of Soissons, it was possible to contract gradually the great arc of the salient with the result that by August 4 all surviving troops were safely in the rear of the barrier formed by the Aisne and Vesle rivers.

But this successful withdrawal had been disastrous, not because of the heavy loss in men, guns and material, but because the fast attrition of German reserves had robbed that nation of the power for initiative.

The American 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 26th, 28th, 32nd and 42nd divisions had signally distinguished themselves in this onslaught.

Under the driving genius of General Foch the successful advance of July 18 marked the start of the Allied march to final victory. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

JUNE RAINFALL IN NORTH PART BROKE EXISTING RECORDS

But Southern Illinois Did Not Get Needed
Precipitation

Springfield Ill.—(AP)—A 6.56 inch fall of rain at Joliet June 11 was, with one exception, the greatest twenty-four hour rainfall ever recorded in this state, a report by Clarence J. Root, director of the weather bureau office here said today.

"There were great variations in the precipitation", the report said. "At Cairo, the rainfall was the least ever recorded for June, but at Fairview and Freeport, it was the greatest of any month of the year. June eleventh, the rain at Freeport exceeded all previous twenty-four hour falls."

"In the southern division, the May drought continued through June, with vegetation suffering as a result. Dust and sand storms were reported during the first week of June in the north part of the state. At one place in Carroll county sand drifts were four and five feet high."

Temperature Was Low
"For twenty days the temperature was below normal. June 3 and 26, it exceeded ten degrees below the normal point. The lowest reading was thirty-seven degrees and the highest 103."

"Precipitation in the northern division ranged from three to eleven inches and in the central division two to nine inches. The totals were about one inch in the southern division, with deficiencies of three inches general. Aurora, Chicago, Clinton, Freeport, Joliet, Mt. Carroll, Oregon, Alton, Astoria, Monmouth, and Rockford recorded falls exceeding three inches in 24 hours."

"Local flood and storm damage was reported in the following sections: "Chicago recorded five thunderstorms on June eleventh, with lightning causing about forty fires and injuring twenty-two persons. The Freeport bureau recorded 6.19 inches rain in six and one-half hours on the same day. One person was drowned in the Peconia River, and tributaries to that stream flooded the lowlands. Alton reported $5,000 damage by wind, and Monmouth, Chadwick and Rockford reported some damage."

Minor Damage Reported
"Minor damage was reported the following day at Monmouth, Griggsville and Edwardsville. On June thirteenth Chicago reported about thirty-five fires due to lightning, one person killed, and many basements flooded. That day, citizens of Rockford experienced their worst flood in thirty-five years. Hundreds of homes were flooded, many abandoned, and several bridges washed away. Springfield reported four persons injured and minor property damage. The storm was also severe in Batavia, Aurora, Livingston, Quincy and Clinton."

"Adams County was visited by a storm June sixteenth with property damage at Fowler of $3,000. Other places reported slight damages."

"Storms struck Griggsville June 17; Monmouth, Waukegan and Peoria June 24, and another storm, this more severe, at Griggsville June 25. A damage of $50,000 to the apple crop was reported from the last storm. July 30 damages in Pulaski County to peaches and other crops amounted to $50,000."

Chicagoans Arrested in Beer Runners' Warfare

Danville, Ill., July 19—(AP)—Following a pistol duel here early today five Chicagoans are under arrest.

George Baccanale, several times convicted here of handling liquor, told police the five came here to "get" him because he declined to further purchase from them a month ago.

It was a hot night and Baccanale slept in his motor car. He was awakened when three men cut the screen and forced the door of his home. He called on them to surrender. They opened fire, which Baccanale says he returned. Approximately 30 shots were fired. The car of Baccanale and that of the Chicago men both were riddled with bullets.

Two were arrested as they drove away in the bullet riddled car. Three were found in hiding, police said. Baccanale came here from Chicago 18 months ago.

The men under arrest are Joe Derr, Fred Mancose, Fred Maloney, Antonio Gerardo and Mike Catalano.

JOHN and FAY MILBURN live a home when their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract. Among their acquaintances are:

NOEL and VERA BOYD, whose marriage is strictly "modern."

NELL and HOWARD ORME, who seem to be unhappy together.

DR. DICK MENEFFEE, John's best friend, and his wife, MARG.

Previous chapters told how: Fay took JUDITH, the baby, to Washington to visit her parents, and during her absence John "ran around" a good deal.

When Fay returned, gossip had detailed and magnified some of his actions and sharp quarrels followed, one of which drove him out "on a tear," and caused Fay to threaten to leave him.

A growing, but timid, interest in Nell Orme is brought to a head by Vera Boyd, who takes delight in promoting "affairs."

She has Nell out to tea and invites John. He goes again and again, and the day comes when he takes Nell madly in his arms. Fay hears about it and leaves him. John closes up the house and takes an apartment, where Nell comes to see him one night after a quarrel with her husband, Howard comes in on them, and threatens divorce.

"He beat her," said Forbes. "Got jealous of a young fellow who writes poetry."

suspect, are finding it unprofitable to be seen talking to me. I'm not going to have you as my sponsor.

"Don't be a fool," Meneffee growled; nevertheless John was firm.

A letter from Fay was so different from the rest of her notes to him that he read it and re-read it for nearly an hour. In it was an indication that Fay was feeling some concern for him, and he knew that somehow word of his latest predicament had reached her.

And there was something about the letter that raised a little spark of hope in him; the wording of certain phrases a tender note.

And the way she signed it—"as ever"—when she had been using "sincerely" for so long.

But he was clutching at straws. He told himself, to think that the note had any real significance. Maybe she felt sorry for him—yes that was it. No use deluding him with any optimistic thoughts.

And so that dreary day passed with Nat Graham wordless and grim, and the new stenographer not daring to notice him with Nat around.

Occasionally he looked up to catch Briggs, the artist, looking at him an expression of pity in his eyes, and once Briggs found an excuse to clasp his hand and wring it and murmur something about "sticking with you, old fellow."

A telephone call from Pat Forbes caught him just as he was leaving the office.

"I'm staying downtown to dinner," Pat told him. "Want to see you."

"By golly, you won't be so indifferent when I tell you the latest bit of news."

"Something more about myself, I suppose?"

"Don't be sarcastic. I'll tell you when I see you."

And when he met Forbes on the street and heard from him the promised news, he was unable to resist throwing his head back and laughing.

"I'm being cut now," John laughed to himself. "Well—"

But later on he passed Eleanor Mason on the street. He was sure she had seen him and was rather surprised that she should deliberately avoid speaking to him.

"That girl, of all people," was his thought.

Dick Meneffee came to see him at his office the next day, complaining loudly that John had no business isolating himself from Margaret and him.

RE-DISCOVERING ILLINOIS

By LESTER B. CROSBY

Illinois Chamber of Commerce

Come with me today and we will visit a city that believes in fairies. I started to say Santa Claus—but Santa comes only once a year. The town that surely must believe in fairies is St. Charles. It is a village of perhaps 5,000 people, about thirty miles west of Chicago.

St. Charles snuggles amid rolling hills. It houses dip down to the Fox River, a pretty stream of moving water. Once the Fox was a highway for Indians who sailed it in canoes. Today dams here and there holds back the water making lakes and giving power.

But I mentioned fairies. For some reason or other, perhaps because it has been good or patient, St. Charles has been blessed. Take the Community House for example.

Just about ninety years of frugal living and frugal building has brought St. Charles to its present estate. Utility has always been the chief motif. Bery little was ever spent for art when it came to raising a business house. Halls and meeting places were plain. These communities that have evolved out of severe, hard working, straight and strict-thinking New England ancestry are usually so.

Now color comes. The blessed fairies are redecorating St. Charles, painting it in colors, vivifying it, teaching it to laugh and play. It comes about something like this—

A few years ago a little group of people there, interrelated, fell heir to a large fortune. Just how much is conjecture. Some say that this fortune was $60,000,000 or thereabouts when it came to St. Charles and that it is grown now to about $100,000,000.

The possessors of the fortune that is playing fairy to St. Charles are the Bakers, the Angells and the Norries. The money came out of the estate of John W. Gates. He made his first few millions out of barbed wire. Other millions followed. He plunged in lands, railroads, everything. He ended his amazing career as a prince of petroleum—The Texas Company.

Ho wthe millions came to St. Charles is too well known to need recounting. Suffice to say that Gates only son died, then John W. Gates died and his widow died. Then we find it in the hands of Mrs. Gates' nearest kin, the Bakers and the Angells. And the Bakers and Angells are whole-souled, likeable people, the salt of the earth who continue to shake their fellow-townsmen firmly by the hand.

Dollara Angell, fairy princess of the $50,000,000 or so, fell in love with Lester Norris, the little boy who had helped her bandage the sawdust wound of her dolls in childhood, and they were married. Three years have they been married and there are three little ones in their home.

And as these events were taking place Henry Rockwell Baker, only child of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Baker, possessors of the remaining share of the millions, grew to manhood. Then he became ill and died. Thus we arrive at the Community House.

The Angells and Bakers and Norries traveled some, got wider and newer viewpoints of larger things and came back to St. Charles to be among the people they knew. In memory of their only son the Bakers built and presented to the people of St. Charles a Community House costing $275,000. Then Mrs. Baker added $25,000 as a fund for upkeep and Mr. Baker presented the Community House with the income from a two-apartment building.

In equipping the house one of Chicago's greatest furnishing houses was given the honor of order—to do it completely and well. The Community House has a hall for entertainments with a dancing floor and stage, parlors, rooms for meetings, kitchens, swimming pool, bowling alleys, billiard rooms; permanent quarters for the American Legion, Women's Clubs and the Boy Scouts.

Appointments of the Community House are as tasteful and the tapestries and frizzled chairs and couches as colorful as the most skilled decorators could make them. The finer and newer hotels and clubs in New York or Chicago may out-do it in size or vastness but for atmosphere and taste—ah, impossible!

One day E. J. Baker, in from his farm and his horses and his blooded stock, remarked to the village banker that the village bank might well be in a finer home. Agreed.

res. Neither a wall nor a barred window. The boys are divided into 23 "families" scattered about in eight colonies. Sixteen school teachers teach eight grades; in all 130 employees. It is a pleasant place for boys even to lake and park and zoo. Its health department includes two nurses, a doctor and a full-time dentist.

Enough for boys to eat? Ten hogs a week out of the farm's pens in the weekly kill. Beef and other meat is bought. The bread bake? Four hundred two-pound loaves and 200 one-pound loaves a day. Cookies? Yes, innumerable for boys are boys.

One moment for industrial St. Charles. Here is the great manufacturing plant of the Cable Piano Company; home of the Globe Music Company, stringed instruments and the Newcomb-Hawley Company, radio horns. Two plants make light fixtures, mother hammocks, porch furniture, fishing nets, etc. The Moline Malleable Iron Works manufactures malleable castings of all kinds. That's the more prosaic business side of St. Charles.

It is to these workers and their children that the newer atmosphere, the colorful and beautiful—the Community House, the bank, the theatre, the country club, the hotel—that-is-to-be, all have come or are coming as gifts from heaven. That's why St. Charles must believe in fairies.

ROMPEL DEFENDS LAW.

Chicago, July 19—(AP)—Stoutly denying that the prohibition law is unenforceable, and ridiculing all contrary claims and attempts to modify the dry measure, the Rev. H. E. Rompel, "two gun" vice crusader and anti-social league worker of Joliet, Ill., roused 100 ministers to cheer today at the Methodist Episcopal camp meeting at Des Plaines.

He criticized the state pardons and parole system, the wet movement, the Chicago police department, and the citizenry which winks at the Volstead law and violates it in the home.

"There's a prominent Chicago politician," he said, "who seems to have aligned himself with Billy Sunday going up and down the state to save our boys and girls. He says there's more drinking among the youth of today than ever there was before prohibition. But he's all wrong—all wrong. My own experience proves it to me."

Let Contract for Three Upper Mississippi Tows

Washington, July 19—(AP)—The Dubuque Boat & Boiler Co., of Dubuque, Iowa, was awarded a contract today by the Inland Waterways Corporation for construction of three tow boats for the Upper Mississippi Barge Line between St. Louis and the Twin Cities of Minnesota. The company offered to construct the boats for $165,000 each.

Ten bids for construction of 15 cargo barges were rejected being considered excessive.

EDITORS ON RIVER TRIP

St. Louis, Mo., July 19—(AP)—Members of the Southern Illinois Editorial Association returned to St. Louis today by the annual Mississippi river boat excursion. The party left Friday night. The steamer went as far south as Commerce Ill. The chief stop yesterday was at Menard, Ill., where the Southern Illinois Penitentiary was inspected and the prison band gave a concert.

LOST FAITH, LOST CASH

St. Louis, Mo., July 19—(AP)—The failure of Chippewa Bank two years ago caused Robert Diehl, a welder, to lose his faith in bonds. Thereafter he kept his savings about his home until last night when a burglar took all his money, $1,633 he told police today.

Of the world's soldiers, barely 50 per cent are in Europe. China alone has 1,607,000 men in military training.

OUT IN THE HINTERLAND BEYOND ST. CHARLES

Charles we find the Wallace Evans Game Farm. Here deer roam the hills, swans swim in little lakes and wood duck and mallards and canvasbacks preen in the watercourses. Peacocks spread their fans and pheasants, gaily colored, march in their enclosures.

Nearby we find the St. Charles School for Boys, state institution for delinquents; frankly, a reform school. But you'd hardly recognize it as such. Col. Frank D. Whipp, managing officer, acted as host and guide. This is the picture:
